HIGH-GRADE ADVERTISING SERVICE

The ad appearing in this issue of the well known firm of B. O. Evans & Co. is so classy and far above the ads usually found in a newspaper in any city, other than Chicago, St. Louis or New York that the Ad Man is bound to call particular attention to it.

To get right down to cases, this Ad Man never saw any newspaper advertising attempt to give the reader the color and texture of the fabric as this ad of Evans & Co. does. We have seen this sort of advertising in catalogues, and inserts, but never in newspapers, and it deserves special mention.

It strikes us that a person, firm or corporation that will go to this extra expense and trouble to give their patrons, and the public in general, a better conception of what they have to offer them for their money is painstaking in their advertising, and the readers of this advertising are bound to conclude that such a concern is up-to-date and particular in all branches of their business; a conclusion that will do any concern good that is catering to particular people.

Sasseen, the Ad Man.

FINAL PREPARATIONS FOR THE CENTENNIAL

MEETING OF FARMERS' SOCIETY HELD IN PENDLETON

WILL BEGIN OCT. 12

And Will Continue Through the 14—President Southern Railway Will Make Address.

Writing to the Intelligencer Col. J. C. Stribling of Pendleton says:

At a meeting of Pendleton Farmers' society held here Saturday afternoon 35 or 40 names were added to the active membership roll for our centennial year, and 14 names on our life membership roll.

Practically all committee members are now on their jobs in the various departments, and if efficiency of committees, full program of distinguished speakers, strength in finance and a large roll of substantial members count for anything, a rousing, successful centennial celebration of this society October 13-14, inclusive, is an assured fact.

Mr. Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, who has for some time been arranging a postponement of a meeting of the railway's board of directors in New York City, because the date conflicted with the dates of the society centennial celebration, has advised the officials of the society that he will be pleased to speak at Pendleton October 13th and at Clemson college October 14th.

Miss Janie Garlington, canning demonstrator, and the tomato clubs, will be given prominent places on the program, and will probably be allotted a room in the farmers' hall for exhibits and lectures.

The last proposition—the centennial celebration, which bids fair to be the most interesting feature of the celebration, engaged the attention of the society Saturday afternoon for a considerable time. It was shown that a creditable exhibit, representing all stages of progress of farm life from 1815 to date is in sight excepting the 10 Indians in their native costumes to lead the parade.

Under the law the Southern railway cannot furnish free transportation, but will furnish special rates for these Indians as soon as the society can make arrangements with them for their coming to take part in the celebration.

A new member from south Florida writes that if we cannot get that large nose, root breaker, razor back hog with rattles on his jaws in Carolina that he would ship one to Pendleton from down there.

Mr. Byars spoke about the winter garden and the vegetables that it would be advisable to plant this winter. He discussed the varieties that would thrive the best in this section and the best way to cultivate them. He advised particularly planting of this season cabbage, turnips, rape, onions, etc.

A winter garden club is to be formed and the books are left open for a few days for those who want to join.

MEETING RIVERSIDE AND TOXAWAY MILLS

FORMAL OPENING OF COMMUNITY WORK WAS POSTPONED

WINTER GARDENS

Discussed Last Night and Club Will Be Formed—Congressman Unable to Attend.

Owing to the fact that Congressman Lever could not get to Anderson last night, the formal opening of the community work at the Riverside and Toxaway mills, was postponed until October 14. Mr. B. B. Gossett talked to Mr. Lever over the telephone yesterday about noon and the latter stated that it would be impossible for him to get here last night but that he would come on October 14, he having an engagement to be at the centennial celebration of the Pendleton Farmers' society about that time.

However, a meeting was held at the mill village last night in the interest of winter gardens. Among the speakers were Mr. B. B. Gossett, president of the mills, Miss Mary Frayser of Winthrop college, Miss Francis Findley, who will have charge of the work, and Mr. S. M. Byars, farm demonstration agent Anderson county.

Mr. Gossett in his talk urged the people to take interest in the community welfare work and also to plant winter gardens. He stated that the mill management was just as much interested in the work as the people and that they would be glad to see them join in the movement. He stated that the mill would have all of the ground for these who would have the winter gardens plowed and put in shape.

Miss Frayser spoke along the lines of the community work in general and complimented the people on the progress already made. She explained the work and stated that she felt like all of them would be greatly interested in it.

Miss Finley said that she was glad to have charge of the work this year and asked the co-operation of the people in the mill villages.

Mr. Byars spoke about the winter garden and the vegetables that it would be advisable to plant this winter. He discussed the varieties that would thrive the best in this section and the best way to cultivate them. He advised particularly planting of this season cabbage, turnips, rape, onions, etc.

A winter garden club is to be formed and the books are left open for a few days for those who want to join.

SHAPING SUMMER COLLARS

The popular collar, for warm weather wear, is the low, turn down style. This kind of collar is one that we have given a great deal of attention to, in regard to its proper fitting and shaping, to insure a well setting, easy to wear collar. The process which we use for this work from the collar smoothly upon both sides, dampens the fold before turning the collar, irons the edge smooth and folds and shapes the collar perfectly. You will like the work we do upon your collars.

We want to urge the farmers to sow grain this fall, and fertilize it when they sow it. The boll weevil is in Georgia and we don't know when it will be here. The pests and diseases that beset cotton seem to be increasing and to be doing more damage every year.

If you have a good grain crop a short cotton crop does not hurt so bad. Five acres in wheat and five acres in oats to the plow, ground well prepared and well fertilized will make things easy for you next year.

Where there is grain there will be hogs. Wheat, corn and hogs and you have a mighty good grub stake. But fertilize your grain when you plant it.
